BOAT REPAIR DOCKS PLANNED BY G. D. NEEL

City Council Votes Ordinance for Parkersburg Man.

FIVE AT MEETING

Palissey Street Property Owners Protest Grading.

Revamped ordinance, granting G. D. Neel, of Parkersburg, W. Va., his heirs and assigns permission to erect and maintain boat repair docks along the river bank near the foot of College street, was enacted on first reading by city council last night.

Under another ordinance which had been approved on two readings, the proposed docks were to begin at the eastern end of the Broadway wharf. The newly measure provides for a lease of that part of the bank beginning 150 feet east of the wharf and extending eastwardly for 400 feet.

Owing to the absence of Councilmen Harry Fleming and T. P. Ferguson, the ordinance could be passed on but one reading. Neel now maintains boat repair docks at Parkersburg, W. Va., which he intends to abandon. About 12 men will be employed at the proposed plant here.

Accept Bert Stevens Plan
By unanimous vote of the five members present, the Bert Stevens plan of ground in Michigan avenue was approved. The city solicitor was instructed to bring in legislation accepting this plan at the next meeting of council. The plan was sent to council by the city planning commission which also approved the plan.

A petition signed by four property owners in Palissey street, between Eturia street and the river bank, protesting against the grading and curbing of this street, as a means of providing a drainage system, was presented. The petitioners pointed out that the cost of the improvement would be excessive and that the need for drainage facilities could be provided by the street department by ditching both sides of the road. Service-Safety Director Moore said that the street department was not equipped to undertake a job of this kind which he declared would necessitate the use of a steam shovel.

Councilman Altman offered a motion that the matter be referred to the service-safety director. The motion was lost by a vote of three to two. Councilmen Frost, Hughes and Green opposing it. Linn joined Altman in support of the proposed action.

SLAYER NEVINS REPENTS AS HE GOES TO DEATH

Self-styled "Hard-boiled Egg" is Baptized.

EXPLAINS MURDER

Cleveland Sailor Pays Penalty in Electric Chair.

COLUMBUS, O., July 2.—(INS)—James T. Nevins' ship of life went down into the sea of eternity last night via the electric chair at the Ohio state penitentiary here.

The Cleveland Great Lakes sailor, about 32 years of age, who slew his cellmate in the county jail at Cleveland, had been baptized a Roman Catholic a few moments before he was electrocuted.

Warden P. E. Thomas gave the signal which sent the 2,200 volts of electricity hurtling through the man's body. It was the one hundredth electrocution the warden has witnessed since he took over the regime of the big prison more than 16 years ago.

Nevins, self-styled "hard-boiled egg" of 1929, repented at the last, and just before he died, just as he was being strapped into society's death instrument, he repeated after the Rev. Father Albert O'Brien, Catholic chaplain at the institution, "Jesus have mercy on my soul."

Hears Band on Death March.
As the man was being marched into the death house, which nestles in the shadows of the south and east walls of the penitentiary, the prison band could be heard broadcasting over radio station WAU.

Softly the strains floated into the death chamber.

Nevins, when ushered through "the little green door," looked like a sea captain who had just weathered a storm. He went to the chair unshaken and unquivering. A thick stubble covered his face.

West Virginian Is Sought In Double Killing In Ohio

Alliance Police Start Search for Former Convict.

ALLIANCE, O., July 2.—(INS)—Search for a former cellmate of Sam De Palmer in the West Virginia state penitentiary, where both were serving sentences for their part in a gun battle between rival gangs in which two men were killed, was started by police today in the hope of clearing up the murder of De Palmer and his wife here.

While in prison the cellmate tried to kill De Palmer who turned state's evidence at the trial and got off with a 13-year sentence while his companions had to serve 20 years. Recently the cellmate was released from prison.

Both De Palmer and his wife were killed on the doorstep of their home last Saturday night in the presence of their two children, Lena, 6, and Dominic, 8. Police said the wife evidently feared an attack for she carried a revolver in her purse.

Garrison Town Turns Out to Greet Major Franco and His Three Companions.

PLANES ESCORT RESCUE CARRIER

Government Representatives, Consular Officials, Airmen's Relatives Greet Crew.

GIBRALTAR, July 2.—(INS)—A hero's welcome was accorded today to Major Ramon Franco, famous Spanish aviator, and his three companions of the hydroplane Numancia, when they arrived here today aboard the British aircraft carrier Eagle.

Franco's Wife Among Welcomers.

This entire garrison town turned out to meet the airmen, who were in splendid physical condition in spite of their week of tossing helplessly on the waves after the great plane was forced to descend while on an attempted trans-Atlantic flight from Spain to New York by way of the Azores.

Representatives of the Spanish government, consular officials, British garrison officers and delegates from various aeronautical societies as well as relatives of the airmen were on hand as the Eagle steamed slowly into the harbor, accompanied by an escort composed of a squadron of Spanish seaplanes.

The wife of Major Franco, only married member of the ill-starred expedition, was foremost among the welcomers at the Gibraltar docks. A brother of Pedro Madariaga, mechanic of the Numancia, also was present, as well as relatives of Captain Galarraga, another member of the crew.

Go To Madrid Tomorrow.
Following the reception at Gibraltar, the airmen proceeded to Lallana, where they were greeted at the city hall by municipal officials.

Soon after their arrival here, the airmen shed their tattered and worn clothes for brand new Spanish officers' uniforms especially brought here aboard a Spanish seaplane.

The fliers will remain here until tomorrow, when they will return to Madrid to be welcomed by the Spanish people.

Official homage was also paid today to officers and crew of H. M. S. Eagle, which picked up the fliers 100 miles southeast of the Azores at dawn Saturday, just one week after they hopped off from Los Alcazares aerodrome, Cartagena, Spain.

The rescue was effected just as the Eagle was about to abandon the long search.

The Numancia, which was scarcely damaged in spite of the severe buffeting it received, will be reconditioned at the Gibraltar dockyard.

Tents have been placed in position, cottages are being opened and overhauled and seats are being installed in the large auditorium preparatory to the initial session Thursday of the 11-day camp meeting, on the Anderson boulevard grounds, of the Rochester, Pa., district of Free Methodists.

City workmen are extending water mains to the campground. In bygone years the source of supply was from wells sunk on the lower section of the grounds.

The old entrance has been closed and tents erected over it. In lieu thereof cars will enter the campground at the extreme western end. A road encircling the space has been made with an avenue for egress on the eastern end.

Evangelist Engaged.
The Rev. W. H. Lawson, of Greenville, Ill., has been engaged as the special evangelist during the series of meetings which will continue until Sunday, July 14. This will be his first visit to East Liverpool.

The meetings will be under the direction of the district elder, the Rev. Dudley W. Rose, of New Brighton, Pa. The latter is an Iowa by birth but has lived in the Pittsburgh and Ohio valley district for 23 years. He, with the Revs. S. E. West, Brooks Morgan and R. N. Large, of the Avondale, Oakland and Chester, W. Va., churches, respectively, has been for several days directing the work on and about the grounds.

The Rev. Floyd Davis of Oak street, has charge of boarding. In addition to the cottages and tents on the plot, dining hall and dormitory have been erected on the southern end of the tract.

Schedule of Services.
The camp meeting will open with a holiness service at 6:30 a. m. on Thursday.

Each day a similar session will begin the activities of the camp meeting. A testimony service, called a "love feast," will be held at 9:15 each morning and it will be followed by preaching at 10:30 o'clock.

Afternoons will be devoted to a children's meeting at 1:30 o'clock and preaching at 2:30 o'clock.

In the evening, the schedule will include out-door ring meeting at 6:30 o'clock. A song service will follow an hour later and preaching will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

There will be two Sunday sessions during the camp meeting. On both of these days there will be Sunday school at 1:30 o'clock instead of the usual children's services.

The auditorium will accommodate 1,500 persons. This number can be greatly augmented by stands.

A record attendance is expected at the services.

The honeymooners were removed to Norwood hospital but will recover, physicians said.

BANK OFFICIAL IS MISSING

Four days' search by the police has failed to reveal any information as to the whereabouts of Willard H. Elliott, missing Passaic, N. J., banker, shown above with his daughter. The police believe that Elliott, who disappeared over a week ago, has been kidnapped. Fear that he has met with foul play still persists and the bank's books are being examined to determine whether any of the loans can be traced to liquor interests that might want Elliott out of the way.

British King Urges Naval Armament Cut

Ruler's Speech is Read By Lord Chancellor at Opening of Parliament.

BY HARRY R. FLORY.

LONDON, July 2.—Hope for early reduction of naval armaments was expressed in King George's speech opening the new parliament today.

The speech was read by the lord chancellor.

It was revealed that the new labor government is "examining conditions" under which diplomatic relations may be reopened between Britain and Soviet Russia.

The speech outlined measures designed by Premier Ramsey MacDonald's cabinet for the relief of British unemployment. It stated that the nationalization of coal is under contemplation. However, while the state may take over the mineral it would not nationalize the industry itself.

Reference to the government's intention to investigate the liquor traffic may be the first step towards partial prohibition in Britain.

North Randall Track Defies Governor In Race Betting

Sheriff Ed Hanratty, who in former years, has clamped the lid down on race track betting in this county, was quoted as saying he would leave law enforcement at North Randall up to the village mayor, B. O. Shanks. Shanks could not be reached for a statement.

North Randall village police were at the track when the harness races opened yesterday, but they did not interfere with betting. Twenty-one pari-mutuel machines were in operation.

CLASHES MARK NEW YORK CLOAK ZONE WALKOUT

Strikers and Non-union Employes and Police In Battles.

MAN IS STABBED

Number of Arrests Made in Garment District.

By James L. Kilgallen.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Disorder marked the strike of 28,000 cloak and suit makers which began here today.

Battles between the strikers and non-union employes, and between the strikers and the police occurred at intervals. In most instances, the clashes were over quickly and the crowds dispersed.

Expect Advance in Clothing Prices.
Considerable excitement prevailed among the milling crowds in the garment district, the biggest in America.

A number of arrests were made. Samuel Melrasky, 43, was stabbed in the arm when he refused to heed admonitions of strikers.

An advance in the price of clothes is expected to be one result of the strike if it continues indefinitely. "The hour has struck," said the strike call. "The past three years were the worst ever experienced by you... You were forced to seek employment in sweat-shops, where you had to submit to piece work, long hours and six days a week—all for a meager wage... End this demoralization and chaos."

Manufacturers Deplore Strike.
Only about 15,000 persons have been working of late as this is the slack season in the garment trade.

I. Grossman, president of the International Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., which employs about 25 per cent of the workers in the industry and represents 160 manufacturers, known as stylists of the cloak and suit trade, deplored the calling of the strike. He declared the manufacturers' council would hold themselves in readiness in any move to hasten the termination of the walkout.

Employers Ask Pay Increase.
Here in New York is located the bulk of the country's garment industry. The annual turnover in the industry represents $8,000,000,000 in suits and $4,000,000,000 in cloaks annually.

Wage demands and counter demands are the principal factor in the strike. The employes insist on a $5 increase over the minimum pay for all workers and the abolishment of the "sweatshop."

On the other hand, the manufacturers demand that the union rescind the 40-hour week and permit piece work.

Safeguard Children

As a result of a short-circuited wire falling upon a counter of fireworks in a store in St. Louis, three children and young women were killed, three more persons were critically injured and a score of others were less seriously injured.

With the Fourth of July but two days away, this accident drives home the fact that most of the fatalities in connection with the celebration of Independence day are directly charged to fireworks.

Although observance of the nation's birthday in 1929 was the sanest in many years insofar as adult deaths were concerned, L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio State Safety Council, points out that 50 children were needlessly burned in fatal Fourth of July accidents in Ohio last year. This appalling toll should prompt parents to make an extra effort to acquaint their young sons and daughters with the dangers incident to the celebration of the holiday.

Ohio's death toll in fireworks accidents last year was not confined to one day. There were 25 deaths from firecrackers previous to the Fourth, mostly from explosions, and immediately following the national holiday there were 50 deaths from tetanus, lockjaw and burns. In addition, a number of children were poisoned through eating firecrackers and torpedoes.

And judging from the toll exacted by other causes, common sense rules of safety in the observance of the Fourth should govern swimmers and motorists, too. Last year there were 116 drownings and 76 fatal automobile accidents.

Precaution thus should mark the actions of the celebrator, irrespective of the program for the day. And this is especially true insofar as children are concerned, for most of the holiday victims in bygone years have been tots.

The Barber

He stands ready, a razor of incredible keenness in his capable hands. Stretched out in a chair, eyes closed, face enveloped in white froth, lies the victim. Who else would you trust to do it but your barber? What other person in the world would be allowed to play around your jugular vein other than the master of the striped pole?

Certainly not your business partner; he might be jealous of you. Not your wife; she might want your insurance. Not your brother, for honorable as might be his intentions, limited would be his skill. In the barber, however, there is perfect trust. Shaving is his business and trustworthiness his prime quality.

The shaggy head and the full beard have disappeared in most quarters thanks to the efficiency of these razor-and-shear experts. Neatness is no longer a condition to be attained at the risk of life and comfort. It has become more painless and increasingly convenient as the skill and sanitation of barbering methods have increased. The world is much better and life is much brighter, thanks to painless disappearance of whiskers and hair.

The barber shop has taken the place of the Roman forum. It is in these informal clubs of the citizenry that men can meet men on terms of equality and, in spite of the general invasion of the female, on terms of comparatively good fellowship. The old-fashioned barber shop with its rows of labeled shaving mugs still retains a semblance of its pristine male sanctity and its operators, trim men with kindly eyes, still adhere to those old characteristics of service which have put the barbering business where it is today.

Perhaps efficiency will never dominate this field which should be held inviolate. It is to be hoped that the time will never come when a shave will become an operation involving split seconds and tabulated movements, unless so ordered by the one being shaved. The "human touch" should be retained at any cost.

Intelligent barbers will take action to preserve some location in their shops where a man can remove his collar, rumple up his hair and really relax without intrusion by the fair sex. Shaving is too intimate an art, hair-cutting too vital an operation to be viewed indiscriminately by strange ladies. The barber has the present confidence of the men in the world and his popularity depends on the degree of intelligence which he uses in combing the shearing of the men and the women—the lambs and the wolves. Let him realize that there are some barriers which must not be broken down.

"Only a Dog"

The death of Strongheart marked the passing of a notable of Hollywood.

Strongheart may not have been the first dog actor of the screen, but he was the first dog screen star, with far more than the average screen star's virtues and few, if any, of the shortcomings. His noble qualities were many, his faults were few, and he consistently made good from the first to the last of his screen career.

Strongheart, trained in the kennels of the Berlin police department, served faithfully with the German Red Cross in the World War. From its battlefields he was brought to this country by Miss Murfin, the playwright and scenarist, in whose home he died Monday. His first picture was "The Silent Call," in which he made a pronounced hit, a success duplicated in "Brawn of the North," "White Fang," "North Star" and "The Love Master." The best evidence of the popularity he attained among film fans by his first picture was the mad rush of producers to secure dogs in the hope of duplicating his success as an actor.

Strongheart was only a dog, it may be said, which may explain why he was ever faithful to his human friends, and consistent in his love for his mistress, giving her the devotion of which only a dog is capable. Of how many of the human stars of the screen can as much be said?

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C. July 2.—President Hoover has appointed the special commission, authorized by congress last spring, to decide whether the Panama canal shall be enlarged or an entirely new canal be constructed through Nicaragua. This means another chapter in the history of isthmian canals, a history of absorbing interest, and having a bearing of the highest importance on the destiny of affected countries.

Curiously enough the project to pierce the Isthmus of the Nicaragua route is much older than the Panama project. As far back as 1825 a Nicaraguan canal project was suggested but it failed through lack of funds. In 1850 the American Atlantic and Pacific Ship Canal company made a detailed engineering survey of the route and while the data obtained formed the basis for subsequent projects, the job appeared of too enormous proportions to be undertaken by private capital. Six subsequent surveys all favored the Nicaraguan route.

The fact that Lake Nicaragua and the San Juan river could be utilized by a canal induced the engineers to favor that route but other considerations, mainly of cost, resulted in the selection of the Panama route. The Nicaraguan route is 134 miles longer from coast to coast and the estimates of cost last made showed a cost of $189,864,000 as compared with $144,233,358 for the Panama route.

At the time the decision finally was reached there was no thought of the possible need for a second waterway, at least not for so many years that it was not a concern of those then in charge. But the success of the Panama canal has been so conspicuous that the time when its full capacity will be reached is in sight. The canal was opened in 1915; in 1916 it was closed to traffic for seven months because of the great slides, but since that year there has been a steady gain in traffic with each succeeding year. Transits through the canal were 6,456 last year and tolls collected amounted to $26,944,000.

Fortunately the United States has insured a right of way across Nicaragua. In February, 1916, a treaty was ratified giving the United States a ninety-nine year option to construct a canal and also naval bases in the Gulf of Fonseca on the Pacific side and on Corn Island on the Atlantic. The United States paid $3,000,000 for this option.

A second canal over the Nicaragua route will cut down steamship schedules materially. Eighty per cent of the traffic through the Panama Canal comes from points to the northward. Thus steamships plying between New York and San Francisco would save an entire day's sailing through a Nicaraguan canal as compared with the Panama route.

Fifty-three per cent of Panama Canal traffic is on American account, Great Britain ranking second with 26 per cent, with Germany and Norway third. It will be noted that all of these ships come from points north of the canal so would be benefited by a more northerly route.

It is interesting to note that, despite its relative newness, the Panama waterway has passed the Suez canal in volume of traffic. In 1927 Suez canal transits numbered 5,544 compared with 6,085 through the Panama canal. Cargoes through the Suez amounted to 29,103,000 long tons and through the Panama to 29,524,000 long tons. But Suez tolls were 60 per cent greater than Panama tolls. The base toll rate of the Panama canal is only $1.20 a ton and, in addition, certain government ships of the United States, and Colombia are privileged to pass free of tolls. Were Panama tolls raised to approximately the level of Suez tolls the canal would pay enormous dividends.

It is possible that even President Hoover's commission will not see fit to recommend construction of a canal through Nicaragua. There is an alternate proposal which has many supporters among engineers. It is to increase facilities at the Panama canal. It has been estimated that a third set of locks could be built at a cost of approximately $100,000,000. This would increase the capacity of the canal to 100,000,000 tons a year, or nearly four times the present volume of traffic. Even with the $100,000,000 cost of a dam and reservoir at Alhajuela, this total cost of $110,000,000 would show a very marked saving as compared with the $189,864,000 estimate cost of building an entirely new Nicaraguan canal.

The commission appointed by President Hoover consists of Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, Chairman, Maj. Ernest Graves, representing the United States army, and three civilian engineers, Sidney B. Williamson, Dr. Anson Marston, and Frank M. Williams. All three have had experience on large engineering projects. Mr. Williamson has had Panama canal experience, having been engineer in charge of the Pacific Locks, 1907 to 1912. He was detailed as assistant to Col. George W. Goethals when the latter was chief engineer of the canal.

Q. What kind of brakes do airplanes have? J. G.
 A. The new airplanes have brakes like automobiles. Those which land on airplane carriers are equipped with special devices which catch in the hands of wire attached to the deck of the airplane carrier.

Q. Before sugar was made, what was used as a sweetening agent? H. S.
 A. Sugar is a comparatively recent addition to the household store. Until one hundred years ago, it was a luxury, and was not available commercially to anyone until the 14th century. Honey was its predecessor as a sweetening agent, while maple sugar was known to the Indians in some parts of North America.

Q. What is the principal chemical element in pearls? Z. C.
 A. The principal chemical elements in pearls are calcium and carbon in the form of calcium carbonate.

Q. How can we know that stars are still in existence when it takes so many years for their light to reach us? H. R.
 A. The Naval Observatory says that we do not know positively that any star which we see is now actually in existence; but the continued existence of the stars generally may be assumed since no cause is known why they should cease to exist.

Ritzy Rosalie

Even though this boat is at a standstill, and the water around it is not swirling past the bow as it would if the craft were showing all the speed of which it is capable, Rosalie still gets a bit of a thrill just sitting here, and taking in the gentle breeze. To be sure, her costume smacks more of the back yard garden than the sea, but these overalls and shirt are merely another of the wide variety of nautical costumes and beach costumes of this sunshine loving age. The overalls are of printed broadcloth, and come in a variety of colors, and can also be had in plain chambray piped in contrasting color. The shirt is of white broadcloth and is piped to match the overalls.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The yokelism streaking Broadway is wider than the south side of the old barn and as pronounced as the new little pill ad. on the roof. Scratch the city slicker and there's the yep! Rackets that expire over night at the Weeping Willow street carnival run on for years here.

All New York is familiar with the fake auctions. They sell jewelry along "the street that whips the universe," that turns green before you get it home.

Two museums stressing social ills flourish and the flea circus is in its fifth year on a sophisticated strip of West 42nd street.

A half dozen spiclers in shiny serge make from $10 to $15 a day hawking patented collar buttons and such by the library wall. The cellar cabaret take-joints in the Forties are often five to a block. The cane-you-are-in-the-cane-you-get pitch operates on Sixth avenue near the Hippodrome.

This Spring a sex lecturer played several weeks engagement at one prominent theater and then moved to another with more capacious seating. He gave dollar matinees for "men only" and there were other sessions attended solely by breathless ladies.

He had a sleek professional manner and offered along with his lecture his live models—labeled Miss Sub Thyrdal, Miss Titular and a Miss Adrenal. At the auspicious moment he unfurled the curtain that revealed the coy ladies in bathing suits in their cabinets. Glendular types!

It was interesting to watch the men's matinee arrivals. They would walk briskly up to the theater, glance about furtively and scurry in with the haste of frightened rabbits. The professor explained how to select a mate and backed it up with his book for another dollar.

There was nothing in his flowery lecture, despite his "twenty years' consummate research in the laboratory of life" that has not been featured in patent medicine pamphlets aimed to reach punch gentlemen with endocrine perplexities. But New York ate it up.

London Mirror: "Six girls in Essex, tired of waiting for mates, are going to New York to see what happens."

What? No Essex appeal!

And a cooking expert announces: "Broccoli should always be served with a few pickled capers."

Now, we suppose, every time they serve broccoli we'll have to get tight and imitate the one armed trombone player.

More Stowaways.

Once upon a time, in response to loud and prolonged outcries of distress from the farming population of a certain country, the lawmakers made preparations to launch two relief planes. One was called "The Spirit of Agricultural Marketing" and the other was called "The Spirit of Tariff Revision, Limited." The first machine experienced the ordinary trials and delays incident to such an undertaking. For a long while the two motors, house and senate, continued to sputter against each other. There was a good deal of dumping of gasoline and studying of weather charts, and there was one anxious moment

Amusements

SYLVIA BEECHER, CHEVALIER STAR

Sylvia Beecher, red-haired and petite, plays the leading feminine role opposite Maurice Chevalier, stage idol of France, in the continental favorite's first motion picture, "Innocents of Paris," now at the American theater.

Miss Beecher was chosen from a group of several scores of candidates of stage and screen who were given tests for the leading feminine role in the production.

Her greatest success so far has been on the speaking stage. She was playing with "The Marriage Bed" company on the west coast when she attracted the attention of Paramount officials. Prior to that she had a small role in William Wellman's "The Legion of the Condemned," and was also cast in a minor part in a Tim McCoy production. The plot of "Innocents of Paris" has to do with the rise from obscurity of a poor youth of the streets. He gains an opportunity to appear on the stage with his songs, and he is on the threshold of success when circumstances force him to sacrifice the life of his dreams for the noble thralldom of love.

"KING OF KINGS" WINS PLAUDITS

Cecil B. De Mille's production, "The King of Kings," was cordially received at the American last night. The picture justifies all the praise it has evoked. The feeling of the spectators was reverent delight. Awesome scenes of Christ's persecution and suffering drew tears of sympathy, but in the last fifteen minutes the joy of those who beheld the Risen Lord and received His message was shared in by all.

The various biblical characters in the gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John are easily recognizable. Unquestionably the finest characterization is H. B. Warner in the role of Jesus of Nazareth, first portrayed as the artisan Healer in Galilee, next as the Divine Man who cleansed the Temple, finally identified by His disciples and by the centurion who saw Him dying on the Cross. Warner acts the greatest of historical roles with a fine reverence and sympathy and with a humanness not devoid of glints of humor.

Ernest Torrence is a wonderful St. Peter, while Joseph Schildkraut contributes a remarkable study of Judas, who betrays his Master for thirty pieces of silver. Set against the portrayal of the Divine Man by Warner are two powerful worldly characters, the High Priest Caiaphas, portrayed by Rudolph Schildkraut, and the Roman Governor Pilate, enacted by Victor Varconi.

One must go through a long roster to summarize the playing of the hundreds of capable actors from William Boyd as Simon, who bore the Saviour's Cross, to Montagu Love, the stern Roman centurion, and from George Siegmann as the outlaw Barabbas to the courtly Sam de Grasse as the Pharisee, or to the little boy an dgirl, portrayed by M. Moore and Muriel McCormack, who were cured by the Healer.

Among the women, Jacqueline Logan's splendid characterization of Mary Magdalene stands out as one of the greatest pieces of acting in the films of this era. Dorothy Cumming as the Holy Mother, Majel Coleman as the wife of Pilate, and Julia Faye and Josephine Norman as Martha and Mary of Bethany, contribute worthy portrayals.

DAM NO. 9 CALLS GOVERNMENT CREW

Repair party No. 1 and the steamboat John F. Klein are now working on the valves in the lock gates at bow last night to an enthusiastic audience at the Ceramic theater, where it will remain for a four-day run.

The first Follies ever attempted by the motion picture industry, Fox Movietone Follies, definitely established the fact that Broadway has plenty to worry about.

This all-talking musical comedy sings, dances, talks, sighs and laughs. It is everything that a stage musical revue is, with the addition of the numerous advantages the motion picture enjoys over the stage.

The numbers are expertly and artistically staged, the principles are talented and youthful and the music is original and provocative. There is a highly interesting story interwoven into the texture of the revue with expert hands which added greatly to the enjoyment of last night's audience.

"That's You, Baby" serves to introduce David Percy, handsome young baritone, who has a voice of grand opera calibre. He sings melodiously and with a clarity that makes every word understandable. Sharon Lynn, young Texas actress who has appeared in several Fox productions, including the all-talking picture, "Speak easy," plays opposite Percy in this number and reveals a contralto voice of rare charm.

This number also is the vehicle for the debut of Sue Carol and David Rollins, popular youngsters of the silent screen, in musical comedy roles. Miss Carol has a surprisingly sweet voice and Rollins, too, acquires himself with honors.

POSTAL WORKER GETS FOUR YEARS

Mansfield Man, 50, Sentenced in Mail Robbery.

CLEVELAND, July 2.—(INS).—Hugo P. Ohly, 50, Mansfield mail man driver, was today sentenced to four years in Atlanta penitentiary and fined $1,000 by Judge Samuel H. West in federal court here on a charge of robbing the mails.

Ohly, for more than 20 years a postal employee at Sandusky, pleaded guilty. He told the court that he resigned from the postal service two years ago and entered the employ of his son, Victor, who had a contract for transferring the mail from the Mansfield postoffice to the railroad station.

On April 16, he confessed, he saw a large package of bonds placed in a registered mail sack which he carried to the station. After throwing the sack on a mail truck, he said, a passing freight train cut off the view from the station and he placed the sack back on his wagon. After cutting the sack open and extracting the bonds he burned the remainder of the mail.

On June 3, Toledo police arrested Ohly, his wife, the son and a daughter, as they were trying to exchange more than $8,000 in Liberty bond coupons at Toledo stores. Ohly and his son confessed. The son was sentenced to a year and a day at Chillicothe in federal court at Toledo, but sentence was suspended when it was brought out that the son was under the influence of Ohly. Mrs. Ohly is awaiting sentence at Toledo, the daughter was not indicted.

Slayer Repents

ble of beard hid his aggressive-looking chin. He wore a white shirt, open at the collar which exposed a broad expanse of hairy chest.

Bravado Forgotten.

He had refused to be shaven just a few minutes before, just as he had refused to eat the chicken dinner, which he had ordered earlier in the day, when he said, "I want to start eating at 4 o'clock and eat until I'm bumped off."

But that bravado, which marked his course through the life on the seas, was forgotten in his last few hours. No longer was he the cursing sailor, sardonic letters to penitentiary officials, nor was he the man who had written to Warden Thomas less than a week ago, saying "I'll meet you in hell."

Nevins was the repentant sinner, a man who asked the God he said he did not believe in a few hours before, to "forgive him his sins."

Priest Claims Body.

In an interview a short time before his death, the sailor protested that he was not guilty of first-degree murder. He declared that Don Prentiss, former Detroit motor executive, had insulted his sister while Nevins and he were being held in the county jail at Cleveland. Nevins said that in the ensuing struggle he beat Prentiss to death with a piece of lead pipe.

The Cleveland killer was strapped into the chair and the current was applied at 8:47 p. m. last night and he was pronounced dead at 8:51 o'clock. The Rev. Father O'Brien claimed Nevins' body following the execution. The sailor, who knew no resting place on earth because of his travels, will be afforded his last resting place in Mt. Carmel cemetery here.

The crash occurred as the pilots were bringing the craft down from an altitude of 5,000 feet after the motor had failed. Because of the heavy fog the fliers were unable to see the runway and the plane hurtled past it.

The plane had been in the air nearly 42 hours when the engine failed. CLEVELAND, July 2.—(INS).—The monoplane, "City of Cleveland," aloft since last Friday in an attempt to break the endurance flight record, passed the halfway mark today and continued on toward a new record. ## TODAY

Times says the American masses are to be blamed for the research high tariff. They do not understand that duties will hurt their own pockets.

EVEN the Times might know that the American masses know about the tariff only what they read in newspapers, are not consulted about it, are too busy with radio, automobile and installment payments to care much, anyhow.

HOWEVER, if you asked the "American masses" what they thought about American tariffs and taxes being settled here or in England, they would answer, "We thought that was all settled back in 1776."

FORMATION of gigantic airplane concerns, with capital running to hundreds of millions, promises well for aviation and the country. There is not "enough in aviation" to pay dividends on all that money unless something entirely new can be found.

EACH of the great companies will want something new, and work feverishly to produce it, before the public gets tired of backing air companies.

BY compulsion, the companies will enter the field of research and invention, and do the work that the government, for its defense, ought to do.

A HANDFUL of air passengers, and a few tons of mail, with congress criticizing wisely generous payments, will not pay dividends on hundreds of millions.

BUT A REAL AIRSHIP, wiping out, once for all, long distance rail travel, would pay DIVIDENDS ON BILLIONS.

A BRITISH airplane carrier found and saved the Spanish fliers after others abandoned the search.

The men were saved because the British kept at it, and because Britons know the value of flying. No lookout on a ship found the Spaniards. They were found by fliers, sent from the airplane carrier, to search the surface of the ocean in all directions.

Clutter Wage Claim Before City Council

Finance Committee Scheduled to Make Report Tonight Following Investigation; Engineer Will be Re-employed.

WELLSVILLE, O., July 2.—Report of council's finance committee on any steps they may have taken in the proposed adjustment of the claim of Ernest Clutter, a former city employee, against the municipal treasury, probably will be made at tonight's session of the lawmakers.

Clutter at one time was on the service department payroll.

After being laid off Clutter filed a claim for back wages, amounting to more than $800, which he said was due him for his services as assistant

The claim, presented at the last meeting of council was referred to the finance committee.

Resolution for the re-employment of R. D. McGill, city engineer, also will probably be adopted. At the first of the year council employed the engineer for a six-month period. This elapsed July 1.

In Case After Case Owa-Ton-Na Proves Its Merits

Local Resident Ends Indigestion, Pain in Side and Back-aches With This Natural Remedy

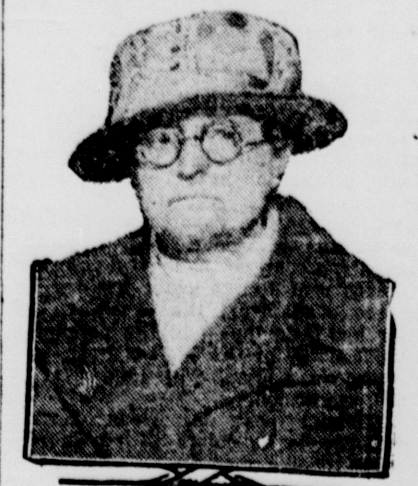

When health is failing the eager search for a remedy to bring it back begins. So often we get the mistaken idea that it is necessary to pay large prices for anything to be good, yet nature in her own garden, the fields and woods of this great country, has supplied us her own remedies which are often very inexpensive. Of these natural roots, herbs, barks and berries, Owa-Ton-Na is made, carefully compounded and packed so that the remedial agents may be intact when you purchase Owa-Ton-Na.

Its remarkable success in kidney, liver, stomach and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run down condition of health are daily apparent throughout this entire section. Men, women and children have been equally benefited by its use. Many who have suffered for years with some obstinate trouble have been rid of their ailments, by this fine old Indian Remedy. It does not depend on its results from dangerous, harmful, doping drugs but on nature's own remedies.

Case after case report equally fine results. Among them is Miss Elizabeth Hargest, 126 West Second street, East Liverpool, Ohio, who has been suffering from ailments which did not want to yield to treatment. She says: "It hardly seems possible that any one medicine could do for me what Owa-Ton-Na has done and in so short a time too. For months now I have been taking medicine after medicine, treatments and almost anything that was recommended to me."

"I was suffering with a particularly obstinate case of indigestion. Food of any kind seemed to distress me, in fact I got to the point where I didn't seem to care whether I ate or not, no appetite at all. Food would cause gas to form in my stomach which would crowd my heart and make me short of breath. Nothing seemed to want to digest."

"I have been constantly troubled with constipation at the same time. Laxative after laxative would give me no relief. Gradually this condition was getting worse. My kidneys started to bother me. Backaches made me feel as though my back would break and with this I suffered frequent severe headaches. Some days I felt so misererably I hardly knew what to do."

"Time after time I heard and read about the praises which other sufferers are giving this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na, and I felt that possibly it would help me, too. It is remarkable the change that even one bottle made. My stomach started to feel better, then my appetite picked up and now I can hardly get enough to eat. Food tastes good, too, where I used to have to be afraid to eat for fear of suffering afterward, I can now eat anything without fear of distress."

"No more gas and bloating spells or belching of sour fluid. My backaches, too, as well as headaches are gone. I used to feel tired and worn out most of the time but now I have new pep and energy and find it a pleasure to go about my work. Owa-Ton-Na certainly is a wonderful remedy. Every sufferer should give it a trial."

Owa-Ton-Na is daily being explained to eager health seekers by a special laboratory representative who is located at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 East Sixth street, East Liverpool, O. This service is free and incurs no obligation. Why not call and have a talk with her yourself and learn the good that can be accomplished by this fine old Indian Remedy. Owa-Ton-Na is also sold at Carnahan's East End and Newell, W. Va. Stores.—Adv.

V. A. SCHREIBER, DRY LEADER, VISITS CITY

Canton Anti-saloon
Zone Chief Speaks
In Wellsville.

GUEST OF KIN

He Will Occupy Pulpit
In Delaware Next Sunday.

V. A. Schreiber, superintendent of the Canton district of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, is here today following his appearance on Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church, Wellsville, Sunday.

Accompanied by Mrs. Schreiber and their young son, Arthur, he spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wirth, of Midland, Pa. The latter is a sister of Mrs. Schreiber.

He and his family were today guests of East Liverpool relatives.

Schreiber will speak in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church at Delaware O., next Sunday morning.

On the following Sunday morning he is scheduled to speak in the First Presbyterian church of Lima. The latter congregation is a part of the Dayton Anti-Saloon league district of which Charles Zellers, formerly of East Liverpool, is the head. It is likely that Zellers will accompany Schreiber on this occasion since the latter will probably visit with him for a few days in Dayton while en route to the Allen county metropolis. Zellers will also speak some time that day in Gomer, near Lima.

WILL MACKS DUPLICATE LAST YEAR'S YANKEE SLUMP?

Hugmen Pare 2 1/2 Games From Athletics' Margin

New York Enthusiasts See Signs of Philadelphia Slip; Ruth Hitting Again; Pennock And Cy Moore Come to Life.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, July 2.—After watching the scoreboard for the last couple of days, some of the long distance experts around here seem to have arrived at the conclusion today that maybe the Philadelphia Athletics won the American league pennant too soon. That is to say, they figure that the Athletics, having won the pennant as early as June, won't be able to keep it won. Any professional gambler will tell you what this means. Never give a sucker an even break, might be another way of saying it.

The Athletics haven't been playing it that way during recent days, with the result that the Yankees have cut 2 1/2 games into the rival lead since the last week end and some of the local hopefuls have accepted the incident as evidence that the long-awaited Philadelphia slump is at hand.

This writer has believed all along that, as impending pennant winners, the Athletics are due. But so is the rent on the first of the month and it isn't always paid.

The point is that, this time last year, the Yankees were rolling along, just rolling along, 13 1/2 games in front; yet September saw them caught and passed, and while they came again to win the pennant, I wouldn't recommend that the Athletics play the system for a repeat.

They are a good ball club—a scout who saw them beat the Yanks here went for them 100 percent in his report to a National league contender—and they have plenty of fight this year but no other club in baseball can touch the Yankees in one respect, namely, they don't know when they are outclassed.

You beat them; they don't believe it. That is a formula for success that is not mentioned in interviews which prattle of hard work and the help of the little woman. Old Mike Murphy, the great trainer, called it another way when he told a Pennsylvania football team that "you can't beat eleven men who won't be beaten."

Now, with Ruth hitting, Pennock starting to pitch and Cy Moore giving some evidence of a regeneration, I'm not so downright certain that they will be outfinished for first place.

It would be a miracle and a man can get rich betting against those things. The Athletics are nine games in front with 89 to play; even the Browns top the champions by a single game today. But with a die-hard club like this chasing them in, the Athletics can do only one thing worse than lose a ball game. And that is to lose two ball games.

LOUIS MEYER IS RACE WINNER

League Leading Cubs Score 11 of Their 39 Wins to Date At Expense of St. Louis Cards

Redbirds Victors in But Four Tilts; Rivals Tied Yesterday in Six Frames.

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 2.—Those skeptical souls who want to know why, aside from their "murderers' row," Joe McCarthy's Chicago outfit is perched atop the National league ladder would do well to take a peek at the figures showing just what the Cubs have done to the St. Louis Cardinals since the season opened.

In brief, 11 of their 39 wins have been scored over last year's National league champions while the Cards have been able to gain but four victories and one tie over the Windy City crew.

The tie came yesterday when both clubs scored 11 runs before the sixth inning when the game was called to allow the Redbirds to catch a train.

The Giants, seeking a higher level, have an opportunity to do just that this week, for today they open a five-game series with the none-too-strong Braves, while the Cards and Pirates begin a throat-cutting contest in Pittsburgh, Chicago has moved over to Cincinnati and may find trouble with Luque and Co.

Nothing would suit the Giants better than to sweep the Boston series and thus be tuned to concert pitch for the invasion of the western clubs that begins next week. McGraw has had his hopes raised by the improvement of late in hurler Larry Benton. Uncle Robbie and his Brooklyn Robins are taking a rest. Inactive yesterday, they will remain idle until Thursday when they will attempt to stave off western invaders.

Hands Unseen

New Mystery Story of "Gray Phantom,"

Loveable Outlaw.

By Herman Landon

Copyright by Street and Smith Corporation.

From the abruptness with which the door had opened while he stood outside debating whether to enter, Vanardy was inclined to agree with him. Moreover, he had no proof that the person he had been pursuing had entered the house.

"Come closer," said the occupant of the wheel chair. "I want to look at you. A man situated as I am, with only one servant within call, can't be too careful, and your explanations do not satisfy me entirely. No, don't stand there. Take this chair, please."

A trifle reluctantly, Vanardy sat down in a position that enabled the cripple to scrutinize him closely.

His disguise was rather shallow, depending for its success upon skillful acting and assumed mannerisms rather than exterior embellishments, and he had ventured on his expedition to Tuckaway Camp in the expectation that he would encounter only a handful of servants. The unexpected arrivals of Cullimore, Bell and the lawyer had given him cause for grave anxiety, and now this face with a keen and methodical sweep, inspired him with further misgivings. He had felt a measure of safety among the others, for they would never expect The Gray Phantom to be foolhardy enough to appear on the scene of a murder he was accused of committing, but he was not so sure that the same consideration would influence the judgment of the man in the wheel chair.

Discovered.

He felt immediate relief when the inquisitorial gaze was lowered, but the cripple's next words came as a shock.

"You will pass," he said calmly, a wintry smile tingling his lips. "You wouldn't think it, but I have keener eyes than most people. It isn't very likely that any one else will suspect that you are The Gray Phantom."

Vanardy sat very still, staring rigidly into the other's frostily gleaming eyes. The cripple had spoken with a matter-of-factness far more impressive than a more dramatic declaration would have been. He leaned back in the chair and seemed to take a malicious satisfaction in the sensation he had aroused.

In a moment Vanardy pulled himself together. "What a ridiculous mistake!" he exclaimed. "The cripple waved his hand as if to indicate the denials were useless. "If it was a mistake, why did it startle you so? Don't disturb yourself, my dear Phantom. I am not at all interested in the affairs of the police. I have only one interest in life, and that is sleep."

"Sleep?" "See these books?" The man in the wheel chair indicated the bookcases along the walls. "Half of them are on the subject of sleep. I have read everything that everybody has written in regard to the matter. Some day I hope to write a book of my own in which I intend to refute the theory of Pingree and others who advance the absurd idea that sleep is produced by changes in the blood supply of the brain. Did you ever hear of anything more ridiculous?"

"I fear I am not an authority on the subject." "No? That's a pity. If you were, we could have a very profitable discussion. My interest in the subject is due to the fact that I seldom sleep. Have suffered from insomnia since my early youth. There is nothing like sleepless nights to start a man's mind working along scientific lines, and mine naturally turned to the matter of sleep. Fascinating subject, I assure you. You ought to read up on it."

"Perhaps I shall some day. Just at present—" "Of course. You have weightier things on your mind. Even a layman, however, ought to see that Pingree is a charlatan. He hasn't even mastered the fundamentals. The truth is so obvious that even a school boy should be able to grasp it. There is no mystery about it at all. Sleep is the natural result of the retraction of the dendrites and the separation of the neurons. Simple, isn't it?"

Vanardy smiled in spite of the tension he felt. There was a glow in the cripple's face that softened its repulsiveness. Vanardy felt an unaccountable attraction toward this peculiar individual who discoursed so avidly on sleep and seemed to hold everything else of minor importance. Even his wicked-looking features took on a picturesque quality as he discussed his favorite topic.

Sleep.

"Sleep?" he murmured, leaning back and regarding his visitor out of half-closed eyes. "It is the most fascinating subject in the world. I am devoting my declining years to a study of it. Sorry I didn't start sooner. My only regret is that life is so short. There is so much to learn, and the time in which to learn it is so brief. Before many years I shall have gone into the everlasting sleep." He chuckled as if the thought struck him as humorous. "But I hope to live long enough to convince people that I, Bryan Hollister, am the world's greatest authority on the subject of sleep."

Again he smiled, and the smile seemed to draw a luminous mask over his features, obscuring their repelling qualities.

"But I see you are not particularly interested," he remarked with a frown. "Always forget myself when I start talking about sleep. It doesn't occur to me that others may not be interested in my hobby. I suppose your mind is on the affair at Tuckaway Camp. Poor Craig! He called on me occasionally, and we played chess together now and then. He is sleeping now." His lids drew together and a peculiar, dreamy light shone out of his eyes. "The last, long sleep."

Vanardy stirred uneasily in his chair. The speaker's personality, his softly spoken words, the faraway glimmer in his eyes, appeared to wrap a veil of unreality around him. Then Hollister sat upright in the chair, and an illusion seemed to vanish.

"What are you doing at Tuckaway Camp?" asked the cripple abruptly.

"Trying to ascertain how Craig was murdered." Hollister smiled indulgently. "As if that mattered! But I suppose the Gray Phantom is anxious to clean his name of a charge of murder."

Vanardy said nothing. For a man devoting his life to the study of sleep, Hollister appeared to have extraordinary acute perceptions.

"The police are dunderheads," said the cripple disgustedly. "A little insight into psychology should be enough to convince them that the Gray Phantom did not commit that murder. Criminal psychology is out of my line, but my commonsense tells me that a man of the Phantom's type would not commit that kind of murder."

"Perhaps you have a theory?" "Theory? I do not bother my head with theories of that sort. How Craig was killed and by whom is a matter of absolute indifference with me."

"I have followed the case in the newspapers, but I have found nothing that interests me. The fact that the murder is supposed to have taken place in an inaccessible room merely shows that it was committed by an ingenious rascal. Don't you realize that you are on dangerous ground at Tuckaway Camp?"

Vanardy smiled. He could see that Hollister's mind was made up in regard to his identity and that denials would be of no avail.

"There is a certain degree of security in doing the unexpected," he replied. "The people at Tuckaway Camp think I am a middle-aged crank and consequently do not devote much attention to me. All eyes are not as keen as yours, Mr. Hollister."

A pleased smile spread at the cripple's lips. "Maybe so. I would rely on that, however. Your secret is safe with me, but why risk exposure? You are welcome to occupy a room in my house until your investigation is finished. You are ever here."

"I am not so sure of that. I have declared my intention to stay at Tuckaway for the present, and a sudden change may arouse suspicion. Moreover, I am to sleep tonight in the room where Craig was murdered."

"Sleep?" The cripple's eyes widened; he gave a dry little chuckle. "I doubt if you will sleep much, my dear Phantom. However, I wish you an interesting night. Sorry I can't accompany you to the door. Come again."

He extended his hand. It was almost effeminately soft, and the contact gave Vanardy an unaccountable chill like that sometimes transmitted by paralytics. His mind was full of conflicting impressions as he moved to the door.

"Good-night," said Hollister softly. "Think over what I told you about sleep."
